

Meet Andy & Max

34 AND 36 YEARS OLD, COUPLE CONSIDERING ADOPTION

Andy and Max are ready to start a family. After exploring both surrogacy and adoption, they've ultimately decided they want to adopt.

Knowing the adoption process is complex and uncertain, they have lots of questions and worries—and are eager for guidance and support.

ADOPTION

Andy & Max need help navigating the adoption process

Their Care Advocate connects them to a Maven Adoption Coach who serves as a personal guide in their journey—helping to navigate everything from financial matters to agency selection.

With help from their Care Advocate and Adoption Coach, Andy and Max are referred to a local agency that provides end-to-end support.

RETURN TO WORK

Re-entering the workforce full-time is the next big hurdle

Relying on the expertise of their Care Advocate as well as Maven's forum for adoptive parents, Andy and Max confidently make a childcare decision that's right for them.

Andy and Max turn to a Maven LGBTQIA+ Mental Health Specialist to cope with the emotional challenges of co-parenting while working full-time.

NEW PARENTHOOD

They welcome a baby girl but struggle with the challenges of parenthood

With lots of unknowns about caring for an infant, Andy and Max schedule regular on-demand appointments with a Maven Pediatrician.

They also turn to a Maven Pediatric Sleep Coach to soothe their baby to sleep, and create a nighttime feeding schedule for their baby.
